President's Message

Bob Ferenc President

Greetings NAR,

It's hard to believe September is already here - where has the year gone? It's a great time to reflect on what has been a busy and successful year for NAR so far. We've had our share of rain that forced changes or cancellations for many events, and now we're in the thick of the heat and humidity. Kudos to everyone who braved the elements these past few months and to those who will in the coming weeks. Cooler weather, vibrant fall colors, and a packed schedule of events are sure to capture everyone's attention.

Let's kick things off with our 63rd annual car show on October 24th, 2026, at Wicks Family Field in Huntsville from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. We expect a fantastic turnout of cars, trucks, and bikes, so make sure yours is polished and ready. With a strong lineup of sponsors and vendors, it's shaping up to be an outstanding event. We still need volunteers, so let us know if you can help. The sponsor's deadline is September 15th, so let's work to bring in a few more. Door prizes are also needed, restaurants, auto stores, collision shops, and more are great places to request donations.

Besides our car show we have several events scheduled. September 1st, join us for our monthly NAR car cruise-in at Phil Sandoval's in Madison from 6:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m., followed by a NAR car display at Brookdale Jones Farm on September 13th from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. For an up-close look at some incredible cars in a private setting, come join us on September 19th for the Deke Damson Garage Crawl with lunch beforehand. On October 3rd, we've planned a road trip to Lynnville TN to visit the Soda Pop Junction retro diner. Great food and great milkshakes. Across the street is a railroad museum (free) and Big Machine Distillery is 5 minutes down the road. Keep an eye on your email for more details on these NAR events.

I would strongly encourage everyone to read your emails (NAR-AACA) and go to the NAR Facebook private page to get firsthand information on what is going on within your club. There are still plenty of shows and cruise-in's left in the season so keep checking the NAR pages.

Our monthly meeting is also a great resource – mark your calendars for September 24th, for our dinner/business meeting at 88 Buffet starting at 6:00 p.m.

Thank you for your ongoing commitment and dedication to our club. We look forward to seeing many of you at events in the coming months.

Unite by Wheels/Fueled by Friends

With warm regards,
Bob

I purchased this car in February 1985 from a then-NAR member, the late Bernard Andrews. It was just a used car then, but a dream come true for me. I drove it extensively around town, and on multiple, trouble-free out-of-state trips, including Georgia, Florida, and to my wedding in Missouri in 1986.

I had to rebuild the transmission (probably my own fault) in the late 80s, and then the engine in 2006 as bad gas was to blame. Otherwise, just routine maintenance.

After 41 years it's my newest antique car, but I've had it the longest!

My Dad's 1947 Hudson Commodore Eight

My dad and I bought this 1947 Hudson Commodore Eight in Paris, IL in July 1974 when I was 15. I think he wanted it because 1947 was the year he graduated high school and possibly that he grew up a couple blocks from a Hudson dealership.

When we picked up the car he said you're driving it home and he said the shift is on the column not on the floor like the pick up and let's go. I was 15 at the time and don't remember much of the drive home but it was 20 miles and I made it somehow.

We never titled or licensed the Hudson but I would drive my dad around town when home on leave and he took great joy in honking the horn at his friends. The car was garaged at my parents home in Marshall, IL until last December when we sold the house and trailered the Hudson to Madison. It's an all original car with original paint and interior. Nancy helped get the car home and I couldn't have done it without her support.

Since getting it home we've replaced the cork clutch, rebuild the carb and fuel pump, cleaned out the fuel tank and many small fixes. We are looking forward to getting this car back on the road and out to some local shows.

A Tiger for a Tiger: A couple's gift to Auburn spirit

Joe Brackin '80 jokes that when he was dating his wife Roberta Marcantonio, he knew their relationship was serious when she let him drive her car.

Roberta purchased her beloved roadster — a 1966 Sunbeam Tiger — in 1980 after graduating college and settling into her career in Atlanta. Since she and Joe married 27 years ago, the couple has been committed to keeping the roadster in top shape, fully restoring the car's mechanics and appearance.

"I knew Joe loved cars when we started dating, even if I made him wait a while to drive mine," Roberta said. "And we joked a lot about that. In fact, the best man at our wedding said that Joe married me for my Tiger and I married him to have an engineer to work on it."

When the couple retired on the South Carolina coast in 2019, they began making estate planning decisions, including philanthropic giving to Auburn. As they considered what they wanted to do with their prized Tiger, it became clear that it could be used to bring joy to the Auburn Family by another Tiger: Aubie.

TIGER TIME

Growing up in central Alabama in the '60s and '70s, loving Auburn was a family thing for Joe. And a part of that love for Auburn was the idea of Aubie.

Joe Brackin and Roberta Marcantonio committed a vintage roadster to the Aubie Program through a planned gift.

"I grew up an Auburn fan, just like my whole family was," he said. "My brother-in-law was a 1968 graduate in civil engineering, and I remember going to a football game with him and my sister when the Haley Center was being built."

Whether from going to games with his family or getting souvenirs from his sister's trips to Jordan-Hare Stadium, Joe amassed a collection of football programs featuring the cartoon Aubie, originally imagined by Phil Neel in 1959.

When it was time to choose a college, the choice was easy. And during Joe's last year at Auburn, student leaders brought Aubie to life.

RESTORING A CLASSIC

When Roberta bought the Tiger, she was determined to keep her dream car for as long as possible. After she and Joe married, they decided it was time to start restoring the roadster.

"It ran OK, and was in pretty good shape, but the paint was starting to get worn and it needed some work," Joe said. "So, when we married and moved to South Florida in the late '90s, we had the conversation that, if we're going to keep this car for the long haul, let's freshen up the paint and do other things to preserve it."

One thing led to another and once they started, they weren't sure where to stop.

"I started taking things off to get the car ready for a paint refresh, and next thing you know, the car is in pieces and the engine is out," he said. "We decided at that point that we might as well rebuild the engine so that it will last forever."

Over the next two years, they found specialists to help them meticulously restore the Tiger to showroom factory condition — including replacing the wood details in the dashboard, repairing the upholstery, rebuilding the engine block and refreshing the original midnight blue paint job.

"The color happened to be the perfect Auburn blue," Roberta said.

GIVING BACK

Helping new generations of the Auburn Family is something Joe holds close to his heart.

After graduating with his degree in civil engineering, he had a nontraditional career working in structural analysis for aerospace companies, and later software structural analysis at Siemens. He credits the well-rounded engineering education he got at Auburn, along with the college's Career Development Office, for the opportunity to interview with companies like Lockheed Martin and Boeing before graduation.

"I was set to work for the highway department, but instead of working on roads and bridges, I worked on airplanes and rockets all over the country," he said. "The great engineering faculty and education I got at Auburn helped lead me to places I never would have dreamed of."

He also recognized the sacrifices his parents made to give him the Auburn experience.

"Auburn was very important to my parents, and they worked hard to get me through school at a time when scholarships and financial aid were rare," he said. "When they passed away, we decided to start a scholarship in their memory as a way to give future Auburn engineers the same support they gave me to earn an education."

Joe and Roberta established the Bob and Lydia Brackin Endowed Scholarship in the Samuel Ginn College of Engineering and created an annual scholarship in his parents' memory as well.

When the couple retired and began looking at long-term estate planning, they established the Joe Brackin and Roberta Marcantonio Endowed Scholarship in the College of Engineering through planned gifts.

As the question of the Tiger came up, it was Roberta who decided that they should bequeath it to the Aubie Program.

Since Roberta and Joe married 27 years ago, the couple has been committed to keeping the 1966 roadster in top shape, fully restoring the car's mechanics and appearance. Roberta purchased the car in 1980 after she graduated from college.

The couple left the roadster to the university in their estate plan but are already working with the Aubie Program, Student Affairs and Ginn College of Engineering to determine how the groups can collaborate to care for the car long-term, including engineering students being part of the car's care and connecting with the Aubie Program.

"We put a lot of love, time and thought into the Tiger, and we like the idea that Aubie will be able to use it to help share what is so special about Auburn," she said. "We know the College of Engineering has smart folks who can help ensure that the car stays in great shape so that it's an asset for the Aubie Program for many years to come."

"We want Aubie to be able to use the car while we're still around," Joe said. "Our plan is to give the car to Auburn when we are no longer able to enjoy it. Until then, we love the idea of driving it to campus around events when Aubie can use it to ride in style."

Joe and Roberta brought Tiger to campus for the Auburn Football game against the Georgia Bulldogs, and drove Aubie to take photos with fans in front of the Melton Student Center the Friday afternoon before the matchup.

"We want Auburn fans to get used to seeing Aubie with the Tiger and rallying around it," Roberta added. "This is a wonderful way to connect our love for Auburn with the larger Auburn spirit in a way that many people get to enjoy."
